

FAMILY GEORYSSIDAE
(Minute mud-loving beetles)

R.E. Roughley

This family includes minute beetles, usually under 2 mm long; two species are known for the Nearctic Region, one of which occurs in British Columbia. Adults are found in mud or sand at the edges of streams, and are often concealed by sand grains or mud attached to the body; they are apparently algal feeders.

BC (1)

Genus GEORYSSUS Latreille

G. pusillus LeConte

- - - BC - - - - -